Main Progress Said To Be Scored South of Dochamps

BRITISH ADVANCE

Patch's Forces Break Up Fresh Nazi Assaults In Lower Vosges

By International News Service

PARIS, Jan. 10.—United States First Army assault forces, narrowing the enemy-held Belgian-Luxembourg salient to a width of less than 10 miles, hammered southward toward within three-quarters of a mile of the strategic communications hub of La Roche.

Main progress of the First Army drive against the northern flank of the Ardennes salient was scored south of Dochamps as operations all along the front were hampered by deep snow.

The thrust toward La Roche by armored and infantry forces was pressed while tank units to the rear mopped up enemy remnants around Marcoult.

Troops of the British Second Army, compressing the western tip of the bulge, advanced southeast of Marche and cleared the Germans from the Forest of Nolaumont. The Britons occupied the town of Forrières, three miles southeast of Rochefort. A front dispatch said that the British also had occupied Bure, some six miles northwest of St. Hubert.

Lieut. Gen. Alexander Patch's Seventh Army which checked the German counter-drive out of the Saar Palatinate into eastern France in the region of Sarreguemines, broke up fresh Nazi assaults in the Runkling area and near Reysersweiler and Lemberg, in the lower Vosges region.

Eastward and north of the Haguenau Forest, a strong German attack was repulsed by the Seventh with heavy losses inflicted on the Nazis who were forced to withdraw to the north.

The resurgent Seventh Army troops scored progress of their own on the Rhine River bank and reentered the town of Gamsheim.

South of the French city of Strasbourg, where the Germans reentered the Rhine from the east bank, the Nazis continued aggressive attempts to exploit gains.

Emphasizes Economy of Season Sports Tickets

By Keith Rosser
Publicity Chairman
B. H. S. A. A. B. C.

To the many basketball fans in Bristol, the Booster Committee organized to promote the sale of season basketball tickets for the local high school games wishes to emphasize the economy of purchasing these tickets.

There are remaining on the schedule ten home games for the high school team and five home games for the Fleetwings team. By securing a season ticket these games may all be seen at a substantial saving over the price of individual admissions. In addition, the buyers will be indicating their active support of the local athletic community as a vital force in the community.

The campaign sponsored by the Booster Committee will close on Friday night. The committee appeals to all public-minded residents of our town to stop at one of the outlets named in the advertisement appearing in another column and purchase a ticket this week.

(By International News Service)

GERMANS SUFFER HEAVY LOSSES

With the U. S. Third Army—Heavy losses were suffered by the Germans today when American Third Army forces repulsed two early morning tank-supported Nazi counter-attacks in the vicinity of Longchamps, three and one-half miles north of Bastogne.

During the last few days at least 15 heavy German tanks and 20 of medium size have been knocked out by the Third Army, bringing German tank losses close to 500 since the enemy break-through westward into Belgium.

The Sixth Division gained up to a mile and a half and occupied high ground overlooking Wiltz, important communications center while other American troops occupied the village of Berle three and a half miles due west of Wiltz against sporadic opposition.

No change was reported on the Third Army's right flank east of Wiltz to Saarlautern. The Germans recently have been sending patrols across the Saar River in strength of from 15 to 20 men.

TWO ILLUSTRATED ADDRESSES DELIVERED BY C. BURNLEY WHITE BEFORE BENSALAM HIGH SCHOOL ASSEMBLIES THIS MORNING

CORNWELLS HEIGHTS, Jan. 10.—Both the junior and the senior high school assemblies were addressed this morning by C. Burnley White, two separate addresses being given by the localite.

In speaking at the junior high assembly, Mr. White spoke on "The Power of Little Things." Mr. White showed how, although comparatively insignificant, they can be very dynamic and powerful when filled with life and exercised mentally and physically. He used a number of anecdotes and illustrations throughout the address, including the release of three large balls from a rope, revealing the results of co-operation.

Before the senior high school group Mr. White announced that his subject was "I See My Duty and I Done It" or "A Plan of Action." Speaking about the discovery of aluminum during the early part of the 19th century he stated that all

A G. O. P. BONUS FOR TAXPAYERS

There is one phase of the state budget now before the legislature which merits the thoughtful consideration of all taxpayers.

This budget stands out in sharp contrast with all current Federal financial plans, and with much the greater part of the state's own previous fiscal history, because it provides for large-scale capital improvements out of cash savings—not through borrowings.

For instance, consider the recommended highways program. These projects represent one of the largest and most costly series of highway improvements ever contemplated at one time.

Repeatedly in the past, when similar programs were started, they were possible only through the issuance of bonds—many of which still remain as charges against the State, eating up considerable sums of revenue in carrying charges and sinking fund payments.

Furthermore, had the fiscal policies of the State Department of Highways continued along the lines of the Little New Deal, the Motor Funds would have been frittered away and dissipated.

But those slippery and wasteful policies were discontinued six years ago this month.

They were discontinued by the Republican Party, under mandate of the citizens of Pennsylvania.

Large credit is due to the personal efforts of two successive Republican Governors and of two Republican Secretaries of Highways.

But at the source, the economies and business-like methods which have made possible the present accumulation of surplus were the fruits of a political philosophy. They are the contribution of the 1938 Platform of the Pennsylvania Republican Party, which promised exactly what has now been accomplished.

The same is true of the surplus in the General Fund which has made possible both a large list of needed projects in other State departments, and also the im-

SEWING CLUB TO MEET

The Rohm & Haas Sewing Club will meet tonight at the home of Mrs. Charles Peet, West Circle.

News in Brief:

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10.—President Roosevelt in his 13th annual budget message yesterday bluntly told Congress to shelve any plans for a reduction in taxes, despite the fact that estimates of overall expenditures—war and non-war—had been cut to $83,000,000,000 for the 1945 fiscal year, a drop of $17,000,000,000 from 1944.

Of the $83,000,000,000, approximately $70,000,000,000 is earmarked for war expenditures, as compared with $90,000,000,000 of the $100,000,000,000 budget for 1945.

Warning that debt mismanagement must not take place after the defeat of Germany and Japan, the President said high taxes must be maintained after total victory for an orderly liquidation of the Federal debt which is expected to exceed $252,000,000,000 at the end of the 1945 fiscal year which closes next June 30.

LATEST NEWS BULLETINS

SEIZE STILL IN WARRINGTON TOWNSHIP

Warrington—Federal agents from the Alcohol Tax Unit, Philadelphia office, raided "Brown Hollies" farm on Pickettstown Road, west of here, yesterday. They seized a 150-gallon still to which was attached two 300-gallon doublers. The doublers were used, it was stated, to reheat alcohol and give it a higher "proof."

The still, brand new, was of copper, which is difficult to secure at the present time. It was located in the basement of the dwelling house, a large mansion which was unoccupied. The last occupant had been a colored woman physician who died recently.

The agents also seized 12,800 pounds of white sugar, and 3600 gallons of rye and sugar mash in 18 hogsheads, also a quantity of pipe. The apparatus had apparently just been erected, and agents believe it had been tested once. Late yesterday trucks were driven to the spot, the equipment dismantled and the mash destroyed. A thorough investigation is underway. Agents state that several such stills have been set up recently in areas surrounding Philadelphia. They are unable to check source of sugar supply.

"LUCKIEST" MAN IN THE WORLD

Quakertown—Eugene T. Hendricks, 60, Allentown truck driver, today pronounced himself the "luckiest" man in the world.

Hendricks' truck was struck by a train yesterday afternoon as he drove it across railroad tracks at Shelly station, north of here. The truck, hit by a south-bound passenger train, was dragged 185 feet before the train was brought to a stop.

The engine was put out of commission, but Hendricks jumped from his truck and brushed himself off. He was treated for two minor scratches on the right side of his face. After producing a four-leaf clover and showing it to the engineer, C. W. Herbine, Allentown, Hendricks claimed that was the reason for his good luck. Hendricks then drove his truck home, while a wrecking crew was sent for to care for the damaged engine.

TELLS HOW JURORS ARE SELECTED IN COUNTY OF BUCKS

Lester D. Thorne Gives Information To Republican Women

LOWER CO. COUNCIL

Inform How Names Are Secured and Drawn From Wheel

The Lower Bucks County Council of Republican Women held a meeting in the Travel Club Home last evening. With the president, Mrs. David M. Sheerer, Jr., presiding, the meeting opened with a business session. One of the outstanding subjects discussed was the proposed organization of a youth center in Bristol. Council voted its whole-hearted interest in this project.

The highlight of the evening was an instructive talk on "Selecting Jurors for Bucks County" given by Lester D. Thorne, jury commissioner of Bucks County. Following are some of the enlightening facts divulged by Mr. Thorne:

"At the present time 1500 names are placed in the jury wheel each year. The number of names selected from each of the 109 election districts is ascertained by proportion. Each voting district is allowed the number of jurors, in proportion to the 1500 names, which its population bears to the entire county. This work is done in advance and is a considerable task.

"With approximately 10,000 men from the county in the armed forces the percentage of women's names is increasing yearly. The wheel which is now in use was filled with 60 per cent men and 40 per cent women. These figures are changed whenever existing conditions make it necessary.

"The selection of names in this county is made with the utmost care. It is very doubtful in my mind if anywhere else in our country the judges take the same amount of care and consideration in helping with the selection of the names placed in the jury wheel. They are in constant attendance during the week in which the wheel is being filled, and furnish information of exceptional value to the sheriff and the jury commissioners.

"The jury commission consists of President Judge Hiram H. Keller, Judge Calvin S. Boyer, sheriff Francis G. Myers, Republican jury commissioner Lester D. Thorne and Democratic jury commissioner Herman Kirkpatrick. They are assisted by the two secretaries of the judges.

"In November of each year a week is set aside for the work of filling the wheel. The end of the year finds us with some 600 or 700 names left from the previous year. These names are on slips of paper, folded and in sealed envelopes. They are removed from the envelopes and sorted as to election districts. The names of persons who have not voted for two years, as well as deceased persons and those who have removed from the county, are deleted from the list. The number of new names to be drawn for each district depends upon the number returned in this manner from the previous year.

"Some people have asked, 'Where do you get the names?' During the latter part of October a letter is sent by both the Republican and Democratic jury commissioners to each committeeman and each committeewoman throughout the county. This letter asks each one to furnish the names of five men and five women who are honest, intelligent and of sober habits, who are physically able to serve, if called. It also asks that they be registered voters, but without regard to party.

MEN SHOPPERS

The extent to which men have taken over the burden of doing the family shopping in this country as a result of the war is quite startling. Managers of several large grocery store chains in New York City are quoted as saying that 25 per cent more men are now doing the family marketing. They have taken over the job because their wives are busy in war production or other outside work.

One store manager concluded that men generally know better what they want and buy more quickly, that they often come in with a list, sometimes a list separated carefully into different categories, and if they cannot get what they want they take the next best thing, even if it is more expensive, because they consider their time more valuable than the money saved by shopping around.

A criticism by wives of marketing done by men is that they are inclined to buy with too little consideration of the family budget, that they fall for things that appeal to their tastes, such as fine cheeses or delicatessen products, forgetting that a pair of shoes for little Johnny has still to come out of the family allowance.

The disturbing note in results of the survey is the possibility that men are not so stupid in their shopping as their critics think they are. Many men who have sat down at table to food considered standard when one eye is focused on the budget may have wished for years for some of the dishes that they now can buy when they go shopping for the family. Permitting a man to do the shopping is like letting an animal out of a pasture to forage in a vegetable garden. He is bound to fill long-felt wants and also do some experimenting.

RAMPANT WEATHER

Little, if any, editorial mention has been made of the sort of weather the country has been having since the official advent of winter, probably because of more widespread interest in weather conditions on the Franco-German border and in Belgium and Luxembourg, but the calendar did not err this time when it ushered in the winter season.

The northern half of the nation, the borderline states and, on occasion, many of the southern states, all have been subjected to more severe and sustained winter weather than has been the case in any recent year. There has hardly been a day in weeks when the temperature did not drop below—often far below—zero at many points in the Northwest and elsewhere.

The protracted period of low temperatures is proving a strain on fuel stocks of all kinds. Coal continues scarce even in coal mining towns and fuel oil users are cutting deeply into their rations. Unless the weather man provides relief in the form of more moderate temperatures, real suffering may ensue before spring.

A book by Stalin has sold 15,000,000 copies, but it will be news when a dictator's work does not make the best seller list.

Mortgage Is Burned At Croydon Church

the ground on which the church was built in honor of his late father, William Wilkinson, held the mortgage papers. The match was then applied by the Rev. George C. Lurwick, pastor of Pocono Lake Methodist Church, but under whose pastorate the mortgage was paid in full.

The present pastor of the church, the Rev. P. Paul Freeman, was toastmaster at the banquet which occurred before the mortgage was destroyed. He presented some former pastors as follows: the Rev. Charles Yrigoyen, Langhorne; the Rev. Howard W. Oursler, Philadelphia; and the Rev. Mr. Lurwick.

The honor guests also included the president of the board of trustees of Cornwells Methodist Church, Charles Hanson. A letter was read which was received from the Rev. John W. Bartram, a former pastor, who is now in charge of the Roman Methodist Church, Roman, Mont.

The cornerstone of Wilkinson Church was laid under the pastorate of the late Rev. George C. Shue, who was the first pastor here. He was followed by the Rev. Howard W. Oursler, who left after a short period having been given a leave of absence by the congregation to go with Rev. Donald Grey Barnhouse on his trip to the Far East mission fields. Rev. Charles Yrigoyen then began his ministry at this church, followed by the Rev. John W. Bartram, who was transferred from the Phila. Conference to the Western Conference in Montana. Rev. Bartram was followed by the Rev. George C. Lurwick and in turn by the present pastor, P. Paul Freeman.

Those in attendance at the banquet and mortgage burning were from the neighboring churches in Cornwells, Edgely and Croydon. Ralston Hedrick led the singing.

outlined last week, and to consider the advisability of conferences with representatives of the Democratic Party.

A decision will be reached on whether the Governor should join in the bi-partisan discussions, if they are held, or leave it to the legislative leaders of both parties to work out a non-controversial program.

The Democratic minority in the House won their right for greater representation on standing committees, although a plea for equal division of the membership was rejected.

In view of the close division in the lower chamber, 105 Republicans to 95 Democrats, the G. O. P. controlled committee on committees made a "gentlemen's agreement" with the minority to give them two more members on major committees and one more representative on committees of minor importance.

A G. O. P. BONUS FOR TAXPAYERS

mediate retiring of millions of dollars worth of General State Authority bonds which otherwise would continue to be a drain upon the revenues of the state for almost another generation.

The size of these projects may be shown by remembering that they are comparable with the original General State Authority program and with the Turnpike.

Unlike such earlier and New Deal types of improvement-financing, which were based on borrowings and therefore called not only for heavy future repayment costs but also a costly special staff to "manage" the projects and their financing, the plans outlined by Governor Martin can be administered through existing State agencies and will present no more financial problem than the writing out of a check against existing funds.

Republican economy and financial prudence have given the taxpayers of this Commonwealth a most substantial Christmas bonus this year—despite tax reductions already made in both General and Motor Funds.

The bonus is the gift to the men and women of the state of a prepaid postwar program of improvements running over $60,000,000.

There could hardly be a better evidence of the fact that thrift and commonsense in government are not mere abstractions, but are matters bearing directly on every pocketbook in the land.

The State Police in Doylestown were notified and found that Ericson had dropped dead on the floor of a second-floor bedroom. Deputy Coroner Dr. Raymond Tice, of Quakertown, issued a certificate of death, which he said was caused by a heart attack.

Ericson was a member of the Church of Our Lady of Mt. Carmel, Doylestown. He is believed to have a daughter and a son living somewhere in Canada. An effort is being made to contact them.

An action for divorce was filed in District Court at Washington, D. C. this week, against Hugo Bezdek, Jr., son of the former athletic director at Pennsylvania State College, by Louise Linkins Bezdek. She charged desertion.

Bezdek's address was given as White Eagle Farm, Doylestown. According to Mrs. Bezdek, the defendant deserted her last September 20. They were married in Washington in 1934. Mrs. Bezdek and the children are residing in the capital city.

By Rev. Arthur D. Sargis

"Hallowed be Thy name," O God, because Thou art holy. In our conduct this day may we not forget Thy nature and our purpose in life. We are here, according to Thy Son, to hallow the Name of our heavenly Father. This cannot be done in sin but must be done apart from sin. May we not take that Name in vain by any unworthy thought, word or deed. In remembering Thy holy nature may we strive, Christ, for holy living. We pray this in the Name that is above every name even the Name of our Lord, Amen.

MURPHY CHOSEN PRESIDENT, LOCAL SPORTSMEN GROUP

Fish and Game Prizes Are Awarded and Movies Shown

FISH WARDEN IS GUEST

Expect High Flow of Water In the Canal Next Season

Election of officers for the current year, awarding of fish and game prizes and the showing of several good reels of sound sports movies highlighted the January meeting of the Bristol Fish and Game Protective Association at the Odd Fellows' Hall last evening.

Frank B. Murphy, 342 Hayes St., was named president, succeeding Howard Asay. John C. Johnson, now a member of the armed forces, was re-elected to the post of vice-president. Johnson, who is now serving overseas, was vice-president when he enlisted.

Don Moyer and Joseph Elbertson were re-elected to the posts of treasurer and secretary. One hundred and nineteen members and guests were on hand for the meeting.

Among the guests present was State Fish Warden Harry Cole who told members that extensive repairs made to the canal side gates at Bowman's Hill and Morrisville should insure a higher level of water and a more consistent flow next year, thus aiding fish life and fishing conditions. He told the group that the 1944 stocking of fish in Bucks County was the largest in the history of the Fish Commission. A total of 65,000 fish were planted in Bucks County last year.

William Bossler, Game Committee chairman, reported that the Game Commission is sending rabbit traps in the next few days and that his committee plans an extensive rabbit trapping program.

Nunzio Rubino was awarded the twenty dollar cash prize for killing the most foxes in this area in 1944. He had a total of eight. Harry Zobel was awarded the five dollar cash prize for returning the first band from the marked pheasants purchased and released by the Association last fall. Howard Asay and Francis Cummons each received a box of shotgun shells for turning in bands.

Oliver Hobbs, Fish Committee chairman, awarded the fish prizes for the 1944 fishing contest conducted for members. Francis Cummons won the bass prize of ten dollars with his three pound, 14 ounce large mouth bass entry. Harry Ratcliffe, Jr., was declared the winner of the non-game fish division when his two-pound, six-ounce catfish entry won the prize of five dollars.

Joseph Smith won the pickerel division with his fourteen-inch entry and first prize of five dollars. Honors for the trout division went to Peter Sabatini who won the five dollar prize with his 12 1/4 inch rainbow trout entry.

affiliation. Naturally the names of persons dull of hearing, persons who cannot read or write, or invalids should not be sent in the list. A blank is enclosed with the letter on which should be listed the name, occupation and address of each man. In the case of women the name, occupation, address, marital status, husband's name and occupation is requested. If the Jury Commissioners received complete lists from every district this method would furnish the names of over 4,000 persons suitable for jury duty. In addition to these lists the Judges secure lists from various other sources throughout the county.

"Despite this large number of names it is surprising how difficult it is to fill the quota for each election district. When a person has served during one year he is not required to serve the succeeding year. The names of husband and wife are not put in at the same time. If the names of two persons residing in the same dwelling are sent in with the lists only one is used in case they might turn out to be father and son, two sisters or two brothers and so on. Old age is given consideration, both on account of hearing and inability to travel to and from court. Every name must be checked to see that the person is a registered voter. This necessitates a careful check with the registration books. These are regularly kept in the Administration Building and are brought to the court room by prisoners under guard.

"The names are called in turn—first the judges select a name, then each of the jury commissioners select one. These are copied on lists, which are made in triplicate, for a permanent record. Understand, the names as called are given by each member of the commission without regard to party affiliation. Both commissioners take an oath to select the names without regard to political preference, prejudice or personal grievance.

"When the entire list of 1500 names has been completed, the names are transcribed to slips of paper so they can be individually sealed. Next the envelopes are folded and placed in envelopes and placed in the wheel and it is locked and sealed and now is in readiness for the drawing of the first jury.

"Upon the order of court the clerk delivers a writ to the sheriff in which he is instructed to draw a given number of names for jury duty. At the present time he draws 96 names for service the first week of court and the same number for the second week. Before the drawing commences the jury commissioners must be present and see that the wheel is still sealed and has not been tampered with since the last drawing. The actual drawing of names is done by the sheriff. When he removes the slips of paper, upon which the names are written, from the envelopes he hands them to the jury commissioners and a list is made in the order in which drawn. As you can readily see the names are drawn entirely by chance. When jurors are needed for Grand Jury an extra twenty-four names are drawn. These are always selected before starting the names for Traverse Jury.

"After the required number of names has been drawn the wheel is locked and sealed with wax seals. The jury commissioners and the sheriff write their names on the tape and each has a seal with his initials. Then the wheel is put away, under lock and key, until another jury is needed."

Due to uncertain winter weather and to illness, the members decided to postpone the next meeting until March. After a social hour, the meeting adjourned.

SMUGGLING NIPPED

LONDON—(INS)—Air smuggling between Paris and London is to be nipped in the bud, following the discovery of 1,000 bottles of champagne stacked in waste land near Chelmsford. Worth $20,000, the champagne was loaded at an airfield in France, unloaded at an East Anglia airfield and brought to Chelmsford by truck.

Here's one reason
the Navy's radios stay
"tuned for action"

Keeping a radio tapping away on the far-flung Pacific battle line is no cinch. But our own George W. Reed is one of the boys who has what it takes.

While with P.E., George was a lineman. It didn't take the Navy long to discover his talent and put it to good use. As radio technician, first class, George has been in the thick of many a fight in the southwest Pacific and also has come successfully through a bout with tropical illness. But he's back on duty now helping push the battle line closer to Japan's shores.

In a changing world, here is a fact that seems to us important—close to 16% of Philadelphia Electric's active employees have been with the company twenty-five years or more. Hundreds more have served P.E. for ten, fifteen, twenty years. Despite wars, depressions, and all the uncertainties of the twenties and thirties, P.E. has been able to go right on serving you with experienced and skilled people. This loyalty of employees for company, and company for employees, is one of the bulwarks of our postwar planning.
